OCCUPATIONAL SKILLS DEVELOPMENT CENTER

The Occupational Skills Development Center is a skill training center for handicapped students at Charlestown High School. Since coming to Charlestown in 1978, the O.S.D.C. has become a vital and welcome addition to the school. Students learn work skills while contributing to the operation of the school. In their office support program, they copy, collate, staple and fold papers for the school. In the Building and Grounds Maintenance class, students learn skills appropriate to jobs in the field while helping to keep C.H.S. neat and clean.

Staff, visitors and special student groups visit Cafe Montego where O.S.D.C. students serve meals prepared by the students themselves. Academic and Life Skills classes compliment the training students receive in the vocational programs. In a new multi-handicapped class, added this year, more severely handicapped students learn through the combination of traditional methods with American Sign Language, a new and highly effective method for teaching the mentally handicapped. The very presence of these smiling, happy, young men and women is a pleasure and an inspiration to students and staff alike.
